Boys Get Away With Automobile

Two Albany boys, Joe and Manuel Semes, aged 10 and 7, longed for a ride in dad's auto. After the manner of "Doe Yak's Kid," they began operations. Everything went OK, until a short turn was made on the banks of El Cerrito creek, when the machine turned turtle and both were pinned beneath. More frightened than hurt the boys when released by their father, began to sprint and slide for home, much to the satisfaction and delight of the audience. No body hurt, not even the machine. This would have been a good one for the movies.

Russell Miller, 12 years old, borrowed a saddle horse of Morford's Dashaway Stables Monday and started back to the old home in Illinois. But somehow Russell's time schedule failed. Two Attractive Business Blocks

Drs. Cunningham and Abbott have embellished Macdonald ave. with two fine business blocks.

But you must not infer from this that Richmond is a mecca for doctors. We have the healthiest city in California. Doctors some times make money in mining property, or on the stock exchange, or in real estate investments. But if every one would pay the doctor that old bill, and appreciate services rendered, the aforesaid doctor could go to Atlantic city during the season and do the dress parade with the "400."

MACKENSEN'S ARMY STRIKES

A HEAVY BLOW ON DANUBE

London, September 16.—Mackensen's army of invasion has struck a heavy blow at the Rumanians defending the Danube line in the Dobruja. According to advices, the Bulgar-German forces have routed King Ferdinand's troops on the southern bank of the river and have advanced nearly thirty miles northeast from Silistria, which fell September 10.

Details of the battle in the Dobruja are lacking, but it is referred to in official statements as a sweeping victory.

Mackensen terms the defeat of the Rumanians decisive.

RUSSO-RUMANIAN ARMY

DRIVEN NORTH BY GERMANS

London.—The Russo-Rumanian army in the Dobruja is retreating northward before the combined Teuton, Bulgarian and Turkish forces, according to an official admission made by the Rumanian War Office September 15.

The German War Office announced that Field Marshal von Mackensen, who is in supreme command in Rumania, "has frequently broken the resistance" of the Russians and Rumanians, and has driven them back to the line of Cuzgun-Kara Orman.

The statement says that 28,000 prisoners were taken in the capture of Turtokai fortress on the Danube.

London.—Austro-German forces in the Transylvanian Alps have taken the offensive against the Rumanians, according to the official statement issued September 15 in Vienna and Berlin.

SWEDEN HOLDS UP

COFFEE SHIPMENT

Berlin.—A Stockholm dispatch to the Overseas News Agency says that Sweden has held up 10,000 tons of coffee destined for Finland, presumably on account of the fact that Great Britain has detained shipments of coffee for Sweden. As a result there is a great scarcity of coffee in Finland.

DYNAMITE IS SET OFF

BY CHILDREN PLAYING

Heroine, Imprisoned in Shack and Match Touched to Fuse

Crockett.—"Let's play movies," exclaimed little twelve-year-old August Josquin, when he discovered a box containing six sticks of dynamite, with caps and fuses attached, on the railroad tracks near here September 16, where he and his three little sisters, Angelina 10, Rosie 8, and Ruth 6, had been playing.

The girls assented, and August staged an impromptu act, with Angelina as the heroine, who had been kidnapped and imprisoned in a shack which he built out of fence boards. When all was in readiness, August placed the dynamite beneath the shack and, securing a match from one of his pockets, touched off the fuse.

A few seconds before the dynamite exploded, Angelina became frightened and ran. The explosion made a hole in the ground large enough to hold a horse and wagon, knocked the children down and severely cut Angelina about the head and face with flying gravel. The others escaped injury.

Neighbors hearing the detonation, rushed to the spot and took the injured girl to the county hospital, where she is said to be in a serious condition.

Sheriff R. E. Veale of Martinez is investigating the placing of dynamite near the railroad tracks.

ALLIES LOSE 78 AEROS ON

WESTERN FRONT IN AUGUST

Berlin, September 17.—Seventy-eight aeroplanes were lost by the British and French as the result of aerial engagements on the western front during August, according to figures given out by a competent authority, says the Overseas News Agency today. Thirty-one of the captured aeroplanes were British and eighteen French.

"The German losses of aeroplanes during August, before and behind the enemy's front, were seventeen aeroplanes," the statement adds.

GERMANS TO REMOVE

25,000 GREEK TROOPS

Amsterdam.—The Frankfurter Zeitung estimates the strength of the Fourth Greek army corps, which is to be transported to Germany, at 25,000 men. The newspaper rejoices that the entente allies are deprived of the use of troops which they might gain if Greece came into the war on their side.

Berlin.—The Vossische Zeitung says that the officers of the Fourth Greek army corps, which is to be transported from Kavala, Greece, to Germany, will be accompanied by their families, "thus preventing the starving of women and children by the entente."

PRINCE OF HESSE

KILLED IN BALKANS

Berlin.—Prince Frederick William of Hesse has been killed at Cara Orman, it was officially announced by the War Office September 15.

Prince Frederick William is the second prince of the house of Hesse to be killed in the war, Prince Maximilian falling on a French battlefield in October, 1914. Seven other German princes have been killed during the war—two of Sax-Meiningen, three of Lippe, one of Reuss and one of Waldeck.

HORACE WHITE, VETERAN

EDITOR, PASSES AWAY

Noted Journalist and Financial Authority Dies in East

New York.—Horace White, for many years one of the country's foremost journalists and an authority on financial subjects, died at his home here September 16, after a long illness. He was 82 years old.

White was a survivor of the distinguished group of New York journalists which included Charles A. Dana and Whitelaw Reid. He was a personal friend of Abraham Lincoln.

Born at Colebrook, N. H., in 1834, White was editor of the Chicago Tribune from 1864 to 1874. In 1883 he joined the staff of the New York Evening Post and was successively editorial writer, editor in chief, president and vice-president of the company. He retired from active newspaper work in 1903.

In 1909 White was appointed by Governor Hughes to the New York State Commission on speculation in securities and commodities. He was the author of several works on economic topics.

Three daughters survive. They are Mrs. J. M. Howells, daughter-in-law of William Dean Howells, Miss Martha and Miss Elizabeth White.

U. S. NEUTRAL TRADE

HALTED BY BRITISH

Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Holland Are Affected by the Order Just Issued

Washington.—A cablegram from Consul General Skinner at London made public September 15 by the Department of Commerce, discloses one of the most extensive embargoes against exportation from the United States to Holland and the Scandinavian countries.

The new embargo, inaugurated by Great Britain and agreed to by the other allies, is made specifically to apply to the United States and assumes the entire legality of the British blockade of the North sea, which the United States Government has denounced.

Great Britain's contention in justification of the wholesale restrictions is that the imports into the proscribed countries far exceed their normal requirements, her assumption being that they are supplying the needs of Germany.

The new British aggression restricts a large number of very important products from exportation and it is predicted the interests affected, which will be many, will solicit the aid of the State Department in having the embargo modified or removed.

It is believed also that the countries to which exportation of the articles named are prohibited will resist the new order.

The articles include such staples as meat, lard, tea, coffee, canned goods, rice and starches.

England by controlling shipping, even of neutral countries, can prevent Scandinavian and Dutch lines from transporting the prohibited articles through a clause in the new regulations which denies to all merchant vessels the facilities of British harbors, such as clearance, coal, etc.

By diverting vessels into English ports, Great Britain claims they are in her jurisdiction and applies to them her own laws, rather than international usage.

The fresh blow at American foreign trade is expected to be felt very appreciably by American exporters as well as by the Dutch and Scandinavian countries, which are thus being put on starvation rations by England.

When asked if he had anything to say for publication Father King shook his head in the negative.

When asked how it happened that Rev. Mr. King was to be proceeded against by information rather than by indictment, District Attorney Stanley Murray said:

"We are proceeding by information for various reasons, principally because it is more expedient to proceed this way, and because there are not so many legal technicalities to be met with. The Grand Jury advised me to proceed by information. The tribunal was unanimous of the opinion that Rev. Mr. King should be held for trial. The evidence which the Grand Jurymen heard will be available to be used at the trial."

Two months ago the Haley girl accused her step-father, Pete Cardozo, of the crime. After being held in jail 60 days he was released and exonerated of all blame. Then the girl accused Father King.

Three weeks ago a child was born to Miss Haley.

Bonds were furnished at 6 o'clock p. m., September 12, after the accused man had been detained in the sheriff's office for half an hour.

EX-SHERIFF HAS NO

REGRETS OVER KILLING

Stockton.—Frank Brown, a former deputy sheriff of Los Angeles, who shot and killed Frank Murphy here September 16 because the latter had struck his wife, expressed no regret.

"I never saw the man before today," said Brown. "When I arrived home I noticed the condition of my wife's face and inquired as to the cause. She replied that Murphy had struck and insulted her Friday afternoon when she tried to interfere with Murphy while he was brutally beating his wife. I told her that I would see Murphy and set out after him."

"Upon encountering him in the Panama saloon I stepped up to him and said: 'I'd like a few words with you.' He replied, 'I'll kill you, too.' With his hand upon his hip pocket Murphy followed me to the door. When we reached the sidewalk I drew and shot the man twice."

Placerville.—Plans are being made for an Indian reservation about six miles from here.

A Real Joiner.

"Is your husband an altruist?"

"I don't think so," replied young Mrs. Torkins; "and I almost hope nobody asks him to join. Charley has so many uniforms now that I can hardly take care of them."—Washington Star.

MADERA CATHOLIC

PRIEST ARRESTED

Father Thomas B. King Charged With Felony Against a 15 Year Old Girl

Madera.—Father Thomas B. King, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic church in this city, was arrested at 3:45 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, September 12, charged with rape, committed upon the person of Margaret Haley, a 15-year-old Madera girl, on the 24th day of December, 1915. He was arraigned fifteen minutes later before Judge Raburn in the local Justice Court. Bail was fixed at $3,000. Attorney Joseph Barcroft, retained by Rev. Mr. King, immediately after the arrest, at once got into communication with various Madera citizens in order to get bond.

Mr. Barcroft appeared with the prelate at the arraignment, and John M. Griffin, well-known local Catholic, was also present. Judge Raburn stated that he would give Mr. Barcroft an hour to get the bail. While the lawyer was arranging for Rev. Mr. King's release the latter was detained in Judge Raburn's office.

Shortly after 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, September 12, Margaret Haley was called as a witness by the Grand Jury. She entered the room pale and apparently frightened. She remained closeted with the jurors for half an hour, and then Josephine Del Porto was called to the Grand Jury room. Following her examination Mary Welch appeared before the tribunal.

At 2:30 o'clock the Grand Jury asked for Rev. Mr. King. He remained with the jurors half an hour. Immediately after the prelate left the Grand Jury room, District Attorney Stanley Murray hastened to Judge Raburn's office and swore to a complaint charging Rev. Mr. King with rape.

A warrant was immediately issued for Father King's arrest, and Sheriff Lewis went in his automobile to the Catholic clergyman's house to take him into custody. The sheriff remained closeted at the home with Rev. Mr. King for fifteen minutes while the latter telephoned to Attorney Barcroft. When the attorney arrived at the house the trip was immediately made to Judge Raburn's office, and the arraignment followed.

When asked if he had anything to say for publication Father King shook his head in the negative.

When asked how it happened that Rev. Mr. King was to be proceeded against by information rather than by indictment, District Attorney Stanley Murray said:

"We are proceeding by information for various reasons, principally because it is more expedient to proceed this way, and because there are not so many legal technicalities to be met with. The Grand Jury advised me to proceed by information. The tribunal was unanimous of the opinion that Rev. Mr. King should be held for trial. The evidence which the Grand Jurymen heard will be available to be used at the trial."

Two months ago the Haley girl accused her step-father, Pete Cardozo, of the crime. After being held in jail 60 days he was released and exonerated of all blame. Then the girl accused Father King.

Bonds were furnished at 6 o'clock p. m., September 12, after the accused man had been detained in the sheriff's office for half an hour.

ENGINE ROOM OF STEAMSHIP

CONGRESS IS UNDEMANAGED

Marshfield, Ore.—The Pacific Coast Steamship Company's liner Congress, which was nearly destroyed by fire off the Coos bay bar Thursday night, September 14, was boarded September 16 by Captain N. E. Cousins and Chief Engineer B. K. Martland and partially examined. The chief engineer found that the fire had not reached the engine room and that the engine, boilers and steering gear were practically undamaged.

Martland reported that the steel walls around the engines and boiler room had saved this section from destruction. The decks, upper works and the cargo all appear to have been destroyed.

By piling wood under the boilers, today, the chief engineer was able to raise seven pounds of steam.

San Francisco.—From a window ledge at the City and County Hospital last Sunday morning Miss Clara Bowen, aged 55, a patient, leaped to death on the concrete pavement, three stories below. No one saw the act of self-destruction. The body was found a short time later with the skull shattered.

S. S. CONGRESS IS

DESTROYED BY FIRE

Blaze Discovered at Three in Afternoon and Race Against Death is Waged by Captain

Marshfield, Ore.—The Pacific Coast Steamship Company's steamer Congress is a burned wreck on the sands off the entrance to Coos Bay. Every one of the 280 passengers and 165 crew were saved.

The vessel made a gallant race against death. Her speed saved the lives of those on board and, after every human soul had left the vessel she held headway enough to thrust her way into the sand.

The steamer was on route from San Francisco for Seattle.

Fire was discovered in the after hold of the Congress at 3 o'clock p. m., September 14. For an hour Captain N. E. Cousins and Chief Engineer Martland thought they could keep it under control.

At 4 o'clock it was found that the fire had gained too much headway. Immediately Cousins sent out wireless calls for help.

At that time he was about fifty miles off Coos Bay. He ordered the helm hard a starboard and headed directly in for shore to meet the vessels that were coming to his rescue.

Had the dredge Michie not been working on the bar when the Congress approached a tragic catastrophe probably would have resulted. The Michie came close alongside the burning ship almost immediately after the latter cast anchor.

By that time the Congress was completely enveloped in smoke, which swirled out and enveloped the Michie also. The decks of the Congress were blistering hot. Men and women, choking in the smoke, endeavored to pile into the lifeboats.

The crew, however, under the direction of Captain Cousins, remained in control of the situation and were assisted by the more self-possessed of the passengers. Women cried hysterically, but there was no panic.

Seven lifeboats were lowered and women and children were put into them without disorder. In the transfer of those aboard to the Michie only one mishap occurred. Charles Joughin, who was a baker on the Titanic when that vessel went down and who held the same position on the Congress, fell into the water while attempting to enter the lifeboat. He was picked up without having suffered injury.

Two members of the crew were overcome by the smoke. They are Chief Engineer Martland and F. Tyson, an assistant in the steward's department. The former's condition is not serious, but the latter was taken to a hospital at North Bend in an unconscious condition.

Mrs. Margaret Rieg of St. Louis, who was ill on board, was transferred safely on a stretcher.

As soon as all the passengers were transferred Captain Cousins ordered full speed ahead. He hoped to run his command onto the shoal of the bar, where the fire could be put out by flooding.

But about 8 o'clock the flames got beyond control and Cousins was forced to order the abandonment of the Congress. The officers and crew took to the small boats.

In the hope that the steamer would go on her own way into the sands, the throttle was left open before the ship was abandoned.

When the Michie docked here a great cheer went up from the thousand persons who had gathered to meet the survivors and to offer them the hospitality of Marshfield.

Cousins and Chief Engineer B. K. Martland and partially examined. The chief engineer found that the fire had not reached the engine room and that the engine, boilers and steering gear were practically undamaged.

Martland reported that the steel walls around the engines and boiler room had saved this section from destruction. The decks, upper works and the cargo all appear to have been destroyed.

By piling wood under the boilers, today, the chief engineer was able to raise seven pounds of steam.

San Francisco.—From a window ledge at the City and County Hospital last Sunday morning Miss Clara Bowen, aged 55, a patient, leaped to death on the concrete pavement, three stories below. No one saw the act of self-destruction. The body was found a short time later with the skull shattered.

Anderson.—Prune picking in this section has been completed.

Oroville.—The residence of John T. Evans was destroyed by fire recently.

Dunsmuir.—Mrs. G. A. Freas, Fraternal Brotherhood organizer, died here recently.

Redding.—The Shasta county teachers' institute will be held here beginning October 16.

Fresno.—James B. Campbell, judge of the Thirteenth State Judicial district under the old Constitution and superior judge in this county from 1884 to 1891, died here September 15. He was 86 years of age. Judge Campbell practiced in San Francisco in the early days, being identified with the firm of Crockett & Crittenden.

San Francisco.—Martin Wehe, member of the Stanford Parlor (Native Sons) baseball nine, slid for second base on the Golden Gate Park diamond last Sunday afternoon. He was safe, but sorry. He was treated at the Park Emergency Hospital for a broken limb.

Porterville.—Neal Beaton, a rancher of the Richgrove district, is a poor shot. His wife can prove it. Beaton went to the poultry yard armed with a shotgun to exterminate a skunk. The animal ran toward the house and Beaton fired two loads of buckshot at it. The varmint escaped, but the shots took effect in the ankles of Mrs. Beaton, who was seated in a front room.

Martinez.—Henry Borghesani, eight-year-old son of Charles Borghesani, manager of a local ice plant, was shot in the head last Friday night, September 15, by his brother Louis, 17, while the latter was examining his father's revolver. The wounded boy was taken to the county hospital and placed on a cot next to his father, who is undergoing treatment for lung trouble at the same institution. The boy will probably recover.

Redwood City.—Marcello Vernengo, saloon-keeper, who was burned out when fire destroyed half of Colma's business section September 11, was a loser again September 15 when the money received from insurance was attached by the Colma Hall Association, owners of the building where Vernengo's resort was located. In the suit which was started in the Superior Court Vernengo is alleged to owe the association $750 for back rent.

Sacramento.—For the first time in almost half a century, according to George Neale, Deputy Fish and Game Commissioner for Northern California, antelope have been seen in this section of the state. The Deputy Game Warden at Susanville has forwarded a report to Neale that he saw a herd of the animals at Coon Camp, Lassen county. Antelope are now protected by the State, and according to Neale, this report shows the protection may ultimately restore them to the game of the State.

Weaverville.—John Hutchens, a pioneer of the southwestern part of Trinity county, was found dead in his chair on the porch of his home in Ruth September 15. His rifle was lying by his side. It is not known whether he killed himself, or was the victim of an accidental discharge of the gun. Hutchens was aged 80 years and was about the first white man to settle in the Mad river valley portion of Trinity county.

San Mateo.—The San Mateo Lodge of Elks went on its annual "oyster bust" last Sunday, and aided and abetted by visiting brothers from San Francisco and other bay points, broke all local, state and world's records for oyster consumption. Fifty thousand bivalves had been provided for the festivities, but the supply ran out and there were cries for more. As there were about 2,000 in attendance, the average consumption must have been more than two dozen per Elk. The annual "oyster bust" takes place at Coyote Point.

BEYOND MEASURE OF YEARS

Geologic Time Cannot Be Computed by the Ordinary Methods of Science.

Scientists hesitate to estimate geologic time in terms of years. Such estimates have, however, been made, and one published by Prof. Charles Schuchert in 1910 states that about 12,000,000 years have elapsed since the close of the Carboniferous age, an age, as the name suggests, in which great deposits of carbon, in coal, were being formed in many parts of the world. This age has been divided by geologists into the Mississippian, Pennsylvanian and Permian epochs, of which the Mississippian is the oldest and the Permian the youngest. The Pennsylvanian epoch alone is estimated by Schuchert to have covered 2,160,000 years, and animal life is supposed to have existed on the earth for over 14,000,000 years before that time. Geologic periods are recognized primarily by the animals and plants that lived in them, so that the study of fossils plays a very real and important part in the progress of geologic knowledge. Rocks of Carboniferous age, as shown in their fossils, have a wide distribution in the United States, and they are apt to abound in these remains of plant and animal life. The fossil shells which are found in them, however, may vary greatly from point to point, because the animals they represent lived in different periods of geologic time or in different regions in the Carboniferous ocean.

THE BETTER THING.

It is better to lose with a conscience clean
Than to win by a trick unfair;
It is better to fail and to know you've been
Than to cheat and to live in a lie.
Who wins by trick may take the prize,
And at first he may think it sweet,
But many a day in the future lies
When he'll wish he had met defeat;
For the man who lost shall be glad at heart
And walk with his head up high,
While his conqueror knows he must play the part
Of a cheat and a living lie.

The prize seems fair when the fight is on,
But save it is truly won
You will hate the thing when the crowds are gone,
For it stands for a false deed done,
And it's better you never should reach your goal
Than ever success to buy
At the price of knowing down in your soul
That your glory is all a lie.

Old-Time Parlor Has Gone Into the Discard; Living Room Has Taken Its Place.

That we are becoming a parlorless nation is one of the interesting developments in modern domestic architecture. This disappearance of the parlor and the evolution of the living room is typical of the new social feeling and marks the change from the conventional and superficial to the more informal and intimate intercourse of the present day.

This movement, begun in the apartment house and developed in the bungalow, was probably brought about by the limitations of space, as well as by the increased cost of building a house.

The praiseworthy desire of simplifying the house may have contributed also to the result. But, whatever the cause, the fact surely remains that, however large the house or numerous the rooms, there seems to be no place for the parlor.

So the parlor, which was once the most important room in the house, is now crowded out or else relegated to a corner of the hall, with two chairs and a palm.

The living room is all that its name suggests. Comfortably furnished, well lighted and with no useless ornaments to be sidestepped or knocked down, it belongs to the man quite as much as to the woman, which is, perhaps, the finest thing about it.

Mexican Cactus, at Once a Pest and a Joy, Is One of Most Curious of All Plants.

Of all the curious plants in the world's vast array of vegetation, there is none around which center so many different beliefs, so many conflicting opinions and so many degrees of appreciation as the cactus of Mexico, whose names are legion and whose varieties number into the thousands.

This peculiar plant is at once considered a pest and a joy, for it is the bane of the traveler, the eyesore to the ranchman and the treasure of the peon, to whom it is a source of livelihood, a food and drink.

Mexico is particularly rich in its range of cactus plants. Owing to its climatic and soil conditions it has countless varieties of all sizes and shapes and all colors of flowers and fruits.

The peon is concerned chiefly with the species of the cactus or prickly pear that is edible, and this he cultivates and harvests in precisely the same fashion today as his ancient Aztec forbears did before Cortez marched his conquering hosts across Montezuma's domains and set up the standard of Spain upon the royal palace to proclaim his conquest.

Creating "Atmosphere"

"Did I understand you to say that you have been rustling in the country?"

"Not in the country," answered the "rustler." "I've simply been sitting around home, smoking a cornob pipe and reading a farm magazine."

Questioning His Motives.

"Dubwaite seems to be a public-spirited citizen."

"He's always writing letters to the editor of his local paper, criticizing the city authorities."

"Well, I don't want to do Dubwaite an injustice, but I happen to remember that he was an alderman before the commission form of government was adopted."

Sad Disillusion.

"What happened to her?"

"While one of her patients was delirious he babbled continuously of his wealth."

"Just so."

"She married him and discovered later that he was worth, all told, about $12.80."

Spelling His Day.

"Ah! Cultivating your mind, I see," remarked the cheerful bore.

CALOMEL MAKES YOU SICK, UGH!

"Dodson's Liver Tone" better than calomel and can not salivate.

Calomel loses you a day! You know what calomel is. It's mercury, quick silver. Calomel is dangerous. It crashes into your bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bowels and should never be put into your system.

When you feel bilious, sluggish, constipated and all knocked out and believe you need a dose of dangerous calomel just remember that your druggist sells for 50 cents a large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone, which is entirely vegetable and pleasant to take and is a perfect substitute for calomel. It is guaranteed to start your liver without stirring you up inside, and can not salivate.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tone straightens you right up and you feel great. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and doesn't gripe.—Adv.

Motorman a Modern Atlas.

Got any old thing you want lifted? A piano, gas range, front stoop, washstand, bureau or mattress, or a relative who's overstaying his leave, or anything like that? If you have, just write to Frank Green, motorman at the car barns, and he'll not only lift them, but toss them any place you say. The other day he lifted a horse weighing 1,350 pounds, about 20 feet in the air. Frank, who weighs only 125 pounds, did the lifting with the assistance of a derrick. He placed a canvas belt around the astonished horse, connected with a belt that circled his own waist, and then stepping into a frame rigged up for the occasion and connected with the derrick, gave the signal for the derrick men to haul away. The horse's head being suspended from the motorman's waist.

"Did you do it on a bet?" Green was asked.

"Nix. I did it just for fun. I like to lift heavy things. Little things like wagons and motor cars blocking the tracks don't bother me. I just toss 'em to one side."—New York Letter to the Pittsburgh Dispatch.

HERE'S ONE OF REASONS WHY EVERS HATES UMP'S

Captain of Braves Tells About Run-In He Had With Official in Game at St. Louis Several Years Ago.

Johnny Evers tells about a run-in he had with Umpire Rigler at St. Louis several years ago. "The fans in St. Louis always rode me there," said Evers, laughing. "They never seemed to let up on me. They'd call me a crab and all that. It was a bit annoying, but I paid no attention to them."

"Finally, one series, we were playing our last game with the Cards. It came to the ninth inning and we Cubs were ahead something like seven to one. It was easy going for us, but still these fans continued to ride me."

"I turned toward those fans and, in an undertone said: 'You big stiff, you!'

"Like a flash Rigler was on me. 'Get out of the game,' he ordered. I was amazed."

"O'Connor took off his mask. 'I say, nobody heard that but you and me, Rigler,' he said."

"Can't help it," said Rigler, 'he can't get away with that stuff when I'm around.'"

"Out I went to the clubhouse, although two were out and we had the game cinched a mile. As I strolled away I heard those fans yell joyously: 'Aha. So you got it at last, eh? Aha!'

Although Evers closed his story here, it was evident that this was merely one of the many reasons why he has little use for umpires.

Plants Have at Least Three Senses, Declares Botanist.

James Rodway, who is the curator of the British Guiana museum and an eminent botanist, declares that plants have at least three of our five senses—feeling, taste and smell—and that certain tropical trees smell water from a distance and will move straight toward it.

But trees not in the tropics can do as well. A resident of an old Scottish mansion, says a writer in the Scotsman, found the waste pipe from the house repeatedly choked. Lifting the slabs in the basement paving he discovered that the pipe was completely encircled by poplar roots. They belonged to a tree that grew some 800 yards away on the opposite side of the house.

Thus the roots had moved steadily toward the house and had penetrated below the foundation and across the basement until they reached their goal, the waste pipe, 160 feet away. Then they had pierced a cement joining and had worked their way in. There seems something almost human in such unerring instinct and perseverance in surmounting obstacles.

The Flag of Denmark.

The flag of Denmark is a plain red banner bearing on it a white cross, and is the oldest national flag now in existence. For over 800 years Norway and Sweden were united with Denmark under this flag. In the year 1219 King Waldemar of Denmark, when leading his troops to battle against the Livonians, saw—or thought he saw—a bright light in the form of a cross in the sky. He held this appearance to be a promise of Divine aid, and pressed forward to victory. From this time he had the cross placed on the flag of his country and called it the Dannebrog—the "strength of Denmark."

The florist got to his store half an hour earlier than usual next morning and had the bouquet ready in the ice box at 7 a. m. The young man did not arrive at the appointed hour. At exactly 8:45 o'clock, the customer rushed in panting and out of breath.

"For land's sake, give me the bouquet quick," he gasped, "I overslept."

TURK'S 'SANCTUM'

HOW THE HAREM FIGURES IN LIFE OF THE ORIENT.

German Writer Asserts That Western Travelers Have Given Out an Entirely Wrong Impression of the Institution.

The West brought its civilization to the East, but one thing the Western people were unable to drive away from the Orient was the harem. The Oriental will stick to his harem. To overturn this old institution would make an end of culture in the Orient.

The harem is a home for women members of the family, widowed mothers, old maid aunts and others of the family branch. Even old servants, unfit for further service, are taken into the harem.

The word harem means "holy place," a protected home, and not what is falsely understood a place where rich Orientals hide and maintain their many wives. The children born in harems are kept there and carefully nursed by their mothers. Therefore the death rate in these harems is very small.

Conversations in the harems are carried on so that the children do not understand what is said in their presence, and as the children are always under the special care of their mothers, servants have no opportunity to teach such children things they should not know.

Married life is one of trust, love and obedience. The middle classes live in homes according to their means, the wives with their children on the second floor, where a man's eye cannot reach. Sultans and khedives generally have for their wives separate palaces, some of them decorated in the best Western styles, the rooms are darkened through Venetian blinds, which gives them a gloomy appearance. Where several wives live in one house each one has her separate household. The wives meet often by special invitation; they live in harmony together; there is no petty jealousy, each knows that the law allows the husband a certain number of wives. It is wrong to think that bridegroom and bride-to-be have to marry each other by the will of the parents. The parents certainly make the proposal, but the young people are allowed the final word.

Western people have accused the Turks of polygamy, which is denied by the Oriental and the accusation returned with the remark, the Western men are worse, for they flee from flowers, but no one brings any of these flowers home to make her his wife.

Reforms and Western modes have brought much unhappiness into the harems, and often when too late Moslem women have found out that they were wrong.

The Oriental, rich or poor, does not allow his wife to do laborious work; she has to live for her husband and children only. He wants her to live in ease and comfort, and to accomplish this, the husband deprives himself of many things, to give his wife and children all the comfort possible. The Oriental works and is thrifty, while his wife sits at home on the carpet and dreams.

The strict marriage law gives the Oriental wife security and happiness, while Western laws do not give wives that security.

Turkish men seldom are rude to the female population, but many Europeans who don't know the laws and customs of the Orientals, are the cause of the harem ladies being compelled to veil.—Impression of Institution.

Life on the Vatterland.

Anyone who imagines that life on board the Vatterland, the largest steamship in the world, which has been docked in Hoboken since the outbreak of the war, is a rather dull affair at the present time will have a pleasant surprise should an opportunity present itself for a visit to the mighty liner. These opportunities are few and far between. No one is permitted to approach the Hamburg dock, so carefully is the Vatterland guarded from cranks and fanatics, unless possessed of some magic password. At present there are more than 200 persons on board who are making it their home. In every way they have many more comforts than in a hotel, and indeed, the Vatterland is more like a palace than a ship. One of the chief attractions on board during the hot weather is the swimming pool, and as there is no possibility of a shark finding its way into the water anyone wishing to take a daily dip may do so with entire peace of mind.—New York Times.

He Overslept.

An Ohio street florist was spurred to unusual activity a few evenings ago when at about dining time an important young man called and gave an order for an elaborate bouquet. The young man was very particular, and said the bouquet must be ready by 7 a. m. next day, as he was to be married at 7:30 a. m., and the flowers were a necessary part of the ceremony.

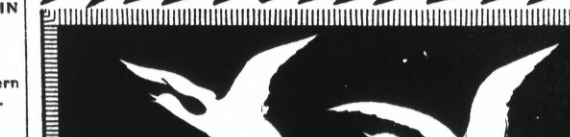

"Now be sure to have the flowers ready at 7 a. m. I will call for them," were his parting words.

The florist got to his store half an hour earlier than usual next morning and had the bouquet ready in the ice box at 7 a. m. The young man did not arrive at the appointed hour. At exactly 8:45 o'clock, the customer rushed in panting and out of breath.

"For land's sake, give me the bouquet quick," he gasped, "I overslept."

Spectacles for Cows.

The idea of cows wearing spectacles seems ridiculous. Nevertheless there are cows that do wear spectacles, and they may be seen on the plains or steppes of Russia, which are covered with snow more than six months of the year. The cows subsist on the tufts of grass which crop above the snow, and the rays of the sun on the snow are so dazzling as to cause blindness. It occurred to a kind-hearted man to protect the cows' eyes in the same way as those of human beings, and he manufactured smoke-colored spectacles which could be worn by cattle. These spectacles proved a great success and are now worn by upward of 10,000 head of cattle. The animals no longer suffer from snow blindness, which once caused such untold suffering among them.

Why Men Are Bald.

Men get bald more frequently than women, according to a scientist, because they wear hard, heavy hats, they cut their hair too short, and they eat more than women. The "doc" says the scalp is like soil, and the hair like the vegetation that grows upon it. When the scalp is neglected the hair does not grow and its roots die, just as grass dies when the soil is poor. A heavy, hard hat constricts the scalp. Clipping the hair short leaves its tender roots at the mercy of the cold, heat and dust. The oil that exudes from around the roots of the hairs and keeps them nourished is coagulated by the cold and chokes up the matrix in which the hair is formed.

Home Newspaper Is For You.

The big city dailies may print pages of news to every column printed in the little country weekly but the big sheet cannot take the place of the latter just the same. Each has its particular place to fill and cannot crowd out the other. You may not appreciate the little paper when at home where you have had an opportunity of learning much of the local news before it was printed, but go away from home for awhile and see how good it will look to you. A "letter from home" does not compare with it. You can do a big part to make it better by handing in an occasional item of news. It will be appreciated.

Primary Law Unsatisfactory.

The Terminal believes that the primary election laws of California are radically wrong, and the same opinion is held by many others, even some who assisted in passing these laws, and the next legislature will have a job on its hands to straighten out the blunders made. A democrat, or a member of any other party, cannot represent a Republican idea. Neither can a Republican represent the views of any other party, and a man who registers as a member of one party should have no legal right to have his name printed on the ballot of any other party, if we are to have a party ticket. When each party has selected its list of candidates for the various offices, which is supposed to be done at a primary election, may the best man win at the general election. This no doubt is what was intended, and what the majority of the voters want.

Public Schools Overloaded.

There is a disposition to reduce taxation and levies are falling off in all departments of government, but school taxes are growing. Adding commercial colleges, teaching journalism, and adding law courses in high schools are samples of overloading the patient ass.

A town of two or three thousand only needs two journalists, but needs a dozen barbers. Why not put in a school of tonsorial art?

Why state schools should teach journalism any more than forty other occupations is not readily explained, but it sends up taxes. It costs more to educate high school students in some of these expanded State high schools than it does to send students to college.

The public schools are overloaded with fads, and should be trimmed of everything but manual training, domestic science and gardening. These features, with possibly vocal music, are of universal benefit, and will help nine children out of ten to make a living.

There are too many incompetent lawyers, "journalists," bookkeepers and stenographers now, without multiplying them in high schools.

THE AMERICAN WORKING MAN SHALL NOT SUFFER

The Republican party stands for the principle of protection. We must apply that principle fairly, without abuses, in as self-evident a manner as possible; and congress should be aided by the investigations of an expert body. We stand for the safeguarding of our economic independence, for the development of American industry, for the maintenance of American standards of living. We propose that in the competitive struggle that is about to come the American working man shall not suffer—From Mr. Hughes' Speech of Acceptance.

Phrases which will NOT occur in the Woodrow Wilson speech of acceptance:
Psychological prosperity.
Molasses to catch flies.
Strict accountability.
Tough proud fight.
Salute the flag.
Get Villa.

DECRYING INTERFERENCE.
WE INTERFERED IN MEXICO EXASPERATINGLY.

The dealings of the administration with Mexico constitute a confused chapter of blunders. We have not helped Mexico. She lies prostrate, impoverished, famine stricken, overwhelmed with the woes and outrages of internecine strife, the helpless victim of a condition of anarchy which the course of the administration only served to promote. For ourselves, we have witnessed the murder of our citizens and the destruction of their property. We have made enemies, not friends. Instead of commanding respect and deserving good will by sincerity, firmness and consistency, we provoked misapprehension and deep resentment. In the light of the conduct of the administration no one could understand its professions. Decrying interference, we interfered most exasperatingly. We have not even kept out of active conflict, and the soil of Mexico is stained with the blood of our soldiers. We have resorted to physical invasion only to retire without gaining the professed object. It is a record which cannot be examined without a profound sense of humiliation.—From Mr. Hughes' Speech of Acceptance.

Cats' Eyes.
As showing how widely the permanently blue eyes of cats differ from other eyes it is noted that immediately the eyes of white cats that are to have permanently blue eyes open they shine bright red in the dark, and neither the ephemeral kitten blue nor any other colored eye does this.
